Habibi Oct 29 2022 'Lgbt en moslim? Dat kan en mag toch niet?

Bestaat dat wel?' Op het eerste gezicht lijkt het misschien een tegenstrijdigheid. Het roept vragen op, reacties van ongeloof, verwondering en onbegrip. Bij sommigen een mate van weerstand en zelfs weerzin. Op basis van diepgaand onderzoek brengt Wim Peumans tien openhartige en vaak ontroerende portretten van lgbt-moslims in België en Nederland. Uit de verhalen spreekt een strijd tussen twee werelden: de wereld van de ouders en die van lgbt's. Gekneld tussen hoop en angst, verwachtingen en dromen, spreken en zwijgen, ontkenning en acceptatie, familie en seksualiteit, God en zichzelf, zijn de mannen en vrouwen in dit boek vooral op zoek naar liefde; naar iemand die ze habibi - mijn liefje - kunnen noemen. 'Je bent plots niet meer alleen, je krijgt nieuwe, verhelderende referenties, je verhaal krijgt een veilige plek om verteld en gehoord te worden. Habibi nodigt uit tot het vormen van een genereus, open en volwaardig beeld van iets dat vaak een zeer intieme, persoonlijke identiteitsbeleving is.' - Sidi Larbi Cherkaoui, danser, choreograaf en artistiek directeur Ballet van Vlaanderen 'Ik ben geraakt en ontroerd door deze prachtige portretten, en voel zoveel bewondering voor hun kracht, moed en geloof in zichzelf. Het is zo belangrijk dat deze verhalen verteld, gelezen en gehoord worden.' - Danira Boukhriss Terkessidis, journaliste en tv-presentatrice

Habibi Sep 28 2022 Fourteen-year-old Liyana Abboud would rather not have to change her life...especially now that she has been kissed, for the very first time and quite by surprise, by a boy named Jackson. But when her parents announce that Liyana's family is moving from St. Louis, Missouri, to Jerusalem -- to the land where her father was born - - Liyana's whole world shifts. What does Jerusalem hold for Liyana? A grandmother, a Sitti, she has never met, for one. A history much bigger than she is. Visits to the West Bank village where her aunts and uncles live. Mischief. Old stone streets that wind through time and trouble. Opening doors, dark jail cells, a new feeling for peace, and Omer...the intriguing stranger whose kisses replace the one she lost when she moved across the ocean.

Hoda Barakat's Sayyidi Wa Habibi Dec 19 2021 "Sayyidi wa Habibi (My Master and My Love)", a novel by acclaimed Lebanese author Hoda Barakat, is abridged in this volume for learners of Arabic at the advanced low proficiency level. This supplementary text adds variety and fun to a regular course on Arabic and is complete with exercises in order to guide learners, improve their Arabic reading skills, and increase their knowledge of Arabic culture. Set during the Lebanese Civil war, this intriguing novel features eloquent prose that keeps readers engaged until the last line. Laila Familiar provides introductory materials, a short biography of the author, and exercises that develop linguistic and cultural competencies. Audio files of Barakat reading five passages from the work, along with a recorded interview, are available free on the press website in order to help students improve their listening skills. This authorized version of the abridged text of "Sayyidi wa Habibi" will be warmly embraced by college and university students of Arabic as well as by independent learners of Arabic.

Eat, Habibi, Eat! Jun 25 2022 100 recipes to celebrate the bold flavors, bright colors, and fresh tastes of the Middle East. In Arabic, "habibi" translates to "my darling," and it is this loving endearment, reserved for the closest friends and family, that permeates every recipe that Canadian-Egyptian chef and television host Shahir Massoud has to offer. Sharing mouthwatering street foods and casual everyday staples, as well as new interpretations of traditional dishes, Eat, Habibi, Eat! encourages you to explore the rich spices and irresistible dishes of the Middle East at home. And Shahir's personal stories, all told in his warm and playful voice, are just as captivating as his food (you'll burst out laughing at his mother's insistence that the Egyptian people would never forgive him if he altered the definitive recipe for ful mudammas). Combining his family's heritage meals with his French and Italian chef training, Shahir teaches you how to build the ultimate Egyptian pantry using some special food items, but mostly ingredients that can be found at your local grocery store. From there, you'll dive in to the over 100 mouthwatering recipes for every meal and time of day. From classic mainstays like Shakshuka, Shawarma and Fattoush Salad, to modern plates like Chickpea Fries with Harissa Mayo and Coffee and Coriander Beef Ribs with Pomegranate BBQ Sauce, Eat, Habibi, Eat! is a feast for the eyes and the taste buds. Whether you already love Middle Eastern cuisine or have never heard of sumac before, Shahir's sumptuous book will inspire you to try something new in the kitchen and have fun doing it.

Mecanoo: Van Fragmentarisch Naar Monumentaal Nov 18 2021

The quantity of designs and realised projects of the Dutch office Mecanoo architecten is impressive, especially for a 25-year period. The most astonishing aspect however is not only the length of this laundry list of work, but also its diversity; from a Catholic chapel in a cemetery, to a housing neighbourhood on a city's edge, to a city park in a postwar housing area, to a city square in a medieval town centre, to a stage set for an experimental opera, to an army barracks and living quarters, to a dwelling for Francine Houben's own family, to a residential tower with more than fifty different floor plans, to various theatres and the streetscaping of a historical city centre. Rather than imposing a prescribed book assembly, for example, going from small assignments to large works, this method of presenting is a reflection of Mecanoo's design philosophy. In this way, the architecture is expressed as an all-embracing concept that ranges from conditions for a fulfilling daily existence to architectural concepts. The book's composition also sheds light on Mecanoo's meticulous approach to a project assignment. The explanatory project texts support this by illustrating the core of the interpretation of the project's program.

Van Vliet's Siam May 12 2021 The most detailed, fascinating, and lively account of old Siam was written by the Dutch merchant Jeremias Van Vliet between 1636 and 1640. This volume includes all four of his writings in English translation: the earliest surviving chronicle of Siam's history; a wide-ranging description of the kingdom's geography, economy, society, politics, and religion; a blow-by-blow account of a bloody power struggle over the crown; and the Dutchman's diary during a crisis -- the Picnic Incident -- published here for the first time. The editors add new details on Van Vliet's life, the Dutch community, the city of Ayutthaya, and the court of King Prasat Thong, which set this ordinary merchant's extraordinary literary work into its context of time and place. Chris Baker is co-author of Thailand: Economy and Politics and A History of Thailand. Dhiravat na Pombejra teaches history at Chulalongkorn University. Alfons van der Kraan teaches in the School of Economics, University of New England, Australia. David K. Wyatt is John Stambaugh Professor Emeritus of History at Cornell University.

Habibi Oct 17 2021 Love is a simple four-letter word, but it's not simple for everyone. For some people, it's difficult, but at the end, if they find happiness in each other, then that difficulties are worth it. Sarah and Hany are madly in love, crazy for each other. Despite being in different countries, the way they feel for each other, is remarkable. With great love comes great misunderstandings. Sarah is forced to believe that Hany is a romantic scammer and is faking his love for the sake of money. She has seen such scammers in her past and had been a victim of it. She is scared to trust Hany. But is Hany really a scammer? Or he loves Sarah genuinely? Will Sarah believe him or will she leave him? What will happen next?

Hieronymus Bosch Feb 09 2021 Four hundred little people frolic au naturel with overgrown songbirds and raspberries; a pudgy blue demon serenades a fashionable young couple with a tune piped through his own elongated nose; a knife-wielding set of disembodied ears stalks the The phantasmagoric imagery of Hieronymus Bosch (d. 1516) has been the source of widespread interest ever since the painter's lifetime, and is still so enigmatic that scholars have theorized that it contains hidden astrological, alchemical, or even heretical meanings. Yet none of these theories has ever seemed to provide an adequate understanding of Bosch's work. Moreover, the considerable professional success that the artist enjoyed in his native Hertogenbosch, not to mention his membership in a traditional religious organization, suggests that he pursued not a sinister secret agenda but simply his personal artistic vision. This intriguing new monograph by noted art historian Larry Silver interprets that artistic vision with admirable lucidity: it explains how Bosch's understanding of human sin, morality, and punishment, which was conceived in an era of powerful apocalyptic expectation, shaped his dramatic visualizations of hell and of the temptations of even the most steadfast saints. Silver's account of Bosch's artistic development is one of the first to benefit from recent technical investigations of the paintings, as well as from the reexamination of the artist's drawings in relation to his paintings. Hieronymus Bosch is also unique in how securely it places its subject's work in the broader history of painting in the Low Countries: Silver identifies sources of Bosch's iconography in a wide range of fifteenth-century panel paintings, manuscript illuminations, and prints, and describes how, despite their own religiousness, Bosch's pictures helped inspire the secular landscape and genre scenes of later Netherlandish painters. Augmented by 310 illustrations, most in color, including many dramatic close-ups of Bosch's intricately imagined nightmare scenes, this is the definitive book on a perennially fascinating artist.

Habibi (my Beloved) Sep 16 2021 Habibi, the love poems of the Moroccan poet Alim Maghrebi, is the latest in a series of David Solway's poetic 'translations,' dating from Andreas Karavis' Saracen Island and including Nesmine Rifat's Pallikari, Rhys Savarin's Reaching for Clear, Bartholomew the Englishman's The Properties of Things, and Dov Ben-Zamir's New Wine, Old Bottles, the latter still in manuscript. These are what Solway calls his 'ostensibles,' poetic voices and artifacts which he regards as constituting an extended trope or metaphor of the desire for transformation.

Habibi. Lief en leed van LGBT moslims Mar 22 2022 Moslim en L(esbisch), H(omoseksueel), B(iseksueel), T(ransgender). Voor velen, soms ook voor de betrokkenen zelf, een tegenstelling. Wim Peumans voerde onderzoek naar homoseksualiteit, migratie en islam. Hij sprak de voorbije tien jaar met LHBT-moslims, trok er samen mee op, vroeg hen een dagboek bij te houden. Uit tien intieme getuigenissen spreekt een strijd tussen twee werelden: spreken en zwijgen, ontkenning en acceptatie, familie en seksualiteit, God en jezelf. Ze bieden een inkijk in wat het betekent om in een westerse samenleving in de 21ste eeuw op het kruispunt van verschillende minderheden te staan. De portretten vormen een relaas van anders-zijn, hoop, angst, maar vooral van een zoektocht naar liefde; naar iemand die LGBT moslims habibi - mijn liefje - kunnen noemen. 'Habibi' behandelt universele thema's als liefde en seks, intimiteit en relaties, opvoeding en familie, spiritualiteit en zelfontwikkeling.
